CELTIC SOUNDS (UPDATED IN 2014) NEW LONGWAVE SOUNDS COVERING THE BEAUTIFUL CELTIC GENRE...

The sound of the Celtic Wilderness... beautiful and wonderful sounds that you'll love to play with on your OAS instrument!

The enchanting Irish Flutes, Penny Whistles and Folk Violins are just fantastic. The pitching and variations of the sounds lend to a fantastic new sonic soundscape, never previously heard in a WERSI instrument!

Furthermore, the beautiful new sounds are Stereo Samples and contain multi zones. This means that different octaves contain different special samples and effects. For example, the Ullian Pipes contain register effects and drones at the lower octaves, as does the Highland Pipe sounds.

We've also included a set of novelty Percussion sounds for you. Beautiful metal wind chimes and ancient wooden wind chimes are plentiful with both ascending and descending effects for your pleasure.

We've also paid close attention to the playability of such sounds and have designed the FX sounds to continuously play for greater effect, just like a Real Instrument!

The pitching of instruments have been recreated with tuning features. Most Celtic folk instruments are not perfectly tuned and along with the playing style that manipulate pitches... we've built this into the sounds so that you don't have to worry too much about playing the sounds like a Celtic player!

OAS HINTS AND TIPS

CREATING BACKUPS AND USING THEM AS DIFFERENT INSTRUMENT SETUPS!

We've recently been asked about backup of the entire instrument and how to achieve this. With the new Pegasus Wing and Sonic models, a new facility is included to allow you to directly export an entire backup to USB or DVD. The OpenArt-System 7 range features a different type of Backup system.

In the current OAS 7 software, you can save up to 6 complete backups. This means that in effect you can save 6 entirely different variations of your instrument setups.

For example, you could create a backup that has only Organ and WERSI sounds, such as our Klaus Wunderlich sounds saved in your User Sound slots, or if you ran out of Style Slots (2000 Styles being able to be loaded at any one time), or if you filled this setup with purely Drawbar and organ Total Presets for example... save as a backup.

Then, you could make a new setup that had different user sounds, style and presets etc loaded... you can save this as a new backup.

It's very easy to then move between the two backups... or more if you've created them.

What does this mean in practical terms?

It means that instead of having just 256 User Sounds available at anyone time, you can actually have up to 1,536! Or, instead of a maximum of 2000 styles, you can have a maximum of 12,000 Styles!

At WERSI Direct Ltd, we have different setups for demonstrations for example. An Orchestral Product Demonstration Backup, A BigBand Product Demonstration, a vintage WERSI Backup and so on... you get the picture.

We'll be producing a new programming manual soon with operations such as this fully detailed. What's even better, is that you can export these backups to USB or DVD too, just like the newer Pegasus Wing... this ensures complete piece of mind that your instrument is truly backedup!

WERSI FACTORY A NEW CHAPTER

BUILDING NEW BEAUTIFUL INSTRUMENTS

The new WERSI factory nears completion! Due to the increased demand for WERSI products, the new factory is bigger and contains even more inhouse manufacturing possibilities (such as paint work and finishes of the organs.

Franz Lambert has just opened the new showroom facility at the front of the factory. Factory manager Karlheinz Hack and his team have had to run a complicated schedule to ensure that the transition from the old factory was smooth and completed in a short period of only a few months.

The concert with Franz Lambert was a complete success with hundreds of visitors attending the concert and showroom opening. The building had to undergo an entire refit before it was completed, including stone flooring being removed, a large professional painting facility being installed as well as a complete build of the show room and painting of the exterior.

The new factory will allow instruments to be built directly to customers specification regarding high end paint finishes and custom detail.

We hope to arrange a trip to the WERSI factory later this year.

OAS HINTS AND TIPS

THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN THE 'ROTOR' EFFECT AND THE 'VIBRATO' EFFECT - OX7

We're often asked at WERSI Direct Ltd what the difference is between Rotor and Vibrato for the OX7 drawbars. The easiest way to explain this is to ensure that there is an understanding that both are completely different effects.

Rotor: This is a simulation of a rotary speaker. Hence, when the Rotor effect is selected, you can 'speed up' or 'slow down' the sound of the Rotor effect via the Rotor Control button in the Rhythm Controls section.

Vibrato: This is an artificial Vibrato of a sound wave. Drawbar sounds are made from sine footages (pure sine waves). The Vibrato effect literally 'vibrates' the sound. This is where the famous WERSI Voice effect from the WERSI Helios and then WERSI Spectra came from. It is basically a form of Vibrato.

Hammond Organs have both Vibrato and Rotor effects too, albeit the Rotor was from a revolving Leslie cabinet. The WERSI organs that came later, sought to emulate these effects electronically.

The famous sounds of the WERSI artists using the drawbars often used a mixture of both effects to create the WERSI drawbar sound. On modern OAS instruments, to instantly achieve the WERSI drawbar sound, simply select 'Tonewheel Zugriegel' and choose 'Organ Drawbars 1'. Turn the Rotor button off and choose the 'Vibrato' button. The drawbars will instantly be changed to a standard 'WERSI' type drawbar sound.

You can also add the 'Rotor' effect which produces a heavier synthetic version of the WERSI organ drawbar type sound. You should feel free to experiment. It's fun and also it's the best way to get to know your OX7 drawbar module.

If you're feeling even more adventurous, why not open the OX7 Drawbar Editor (in the Settings display) and look at how you can change and increase, decrease the speed and intensity of the Vibrato and Rotor effects. There's a whole world of fun waiting for you in there!

EFFECT BUTTONS RECORDING NEW SFX!

It's easy to record new SFX sounds that you can then assign to your Sound Effect buttons!

1. Open the Effect-Sound Editor (under the Settings Display).
2. Press on the 'Record New Effect Sound' button. A digital recorder will open.

2. If you have a microphone connected to your instrument, simply record something... like a hand clap or laughter, or something funny that you think may enhance your music arrangements.

Then, press the 'Start' button. When you're finished, press the 'stop' button. You'll be prompted to save the recording. Press 'Yes', give it a name and save the recording.

It's now available to use on any of your six (or ten SFX buttons if you have a Scala or Louvre GS1000).

You can also be creative and load in special effects from the CD-Player too... Magic!

STYLE CONVERT 4.1 STYLES, REALDRUMS AND PEGASUS STYLES!

Customers ask us regularly what the Convert buttons in the bottom left corner of the Accompaniment manager do.

To explain, we must give you a small history lesson. The convert section is from a time when OAS 7 was first introduced and there were still many customers who either had OAS instruments still operating on OAS 4.1, 5.0 or 6.0 software. These older OAS versions had a different format for Styles and Realdrums, meaning that they had to be converted to work with the new OAS 7 system.

4.1 Styles allowed you to convert your existing and old OAS 4.1 styles to the new OAS 7 standard. This is also true of the 4.1 Realdrum feature.

The Pegasus Styles button allows you to convert really old Pegasus, PhonX, Performer and Golden Gate Style disks to the current OpenArt-System 7 standard, basically meaning that the entire WERSI Style archive can be used in OAS 7.
